The Southern Pacific's munificent gift to the city of a right of way down the Ballona Railroad has made it possible to construct the sewer without an expenditure that would bankrupt the taxpayers.

The plan which will be presented is to lay a cement pipe, 30 inches in the clear, tapping the sewer on San Pedro street, going thence to the railway track, a mile away, and thence alongside the creek, debouching at the point where the railroad crosses the creek five miles from the sea. The total length of the sewer will be 33,000 feet.

At points where breaks usually occur the pipe will be of double thickness and it will be buried three feet beneath the surface. The capacity of the sewer will be sufficient for at least 150,000 to 175,000 people, and as an unlimited space is given in the right of way, should it at any time become necessary, another pipe of the same capacity could be laid alongside the old one with not much more than two-thirds the expense of laying the first one.

In the course of his investigations be found that Vergein was wanted in New York almost as badly as in St. Louis and that his record was by no means clear. Getting a clae that he had gone west, the officer successively visited Kansas City, Psebio, Sal', Lake City, Ogden, Sacramento and Sar', Francisco. After making the rounds in the latter city, accident did what syster ratic investigation had failed to de. While walking the streets of Oaking the detective noticed a lady in the front farden of a boarding-house who reminded aim very much of Mrs, Vergein's beauty. More from habit than anything else he stepped inside, and upon examining the register found the names of W. J. Shaw and family. A. W. Barrett had the nomination for Sheriff all fixed, and that he would have no opposition. This, it is now said, is all a mistake, and that a large element, especially the younger men of the party, want Chief of Police Cuddy to make the race. They say that as the Republicans will probably put up a young man in the person of Coroner Meredith, that it will take an active, popular young Democrat to make the fight, and that Cuddy has these qualities. The further objection to Capt. Barrett is that he has no acquaintance outside of the city, and that even in the city there are hundred of his own party who will not vote for him. The East Los Angeles Protective League held a rousing and enthusiastic meeting last night in a temporary hall on Downey avenue. Mr. Frank Prescott addressed the meeting, and was frequently applanded during the course of his remarks. S. F. Spencer was then called upon, and made a telling speech, making and maintaining some strong charges against Democratic honesty and sincerity so called. He was enthusiastically applanded. A large subscription was raised to defray the expenses of erecting a wigwam and uniforming the club. A large delegation from the Grotelland of the meeting was one that had a tendency to paralyze the Democratic camp on the East Side. One hundred and eleven persons signed the roll.

HORACE BELL.

HIS LIBEL SUIT AGAINST B. A. STEPHENS WINDS UP.

a Queer Lot of Testimon Goes to the Jury-It Only Takes Them 10 Minutes to Say That Stephens Committed No Crime.

The trial of the case of criminal libel against B. A. Stephens was resumed yester-day morning before Judge O'Melveny in Department No. 3 of the Superior Court. begartment No. 3 of the Superior Court. Counsel for the defense was very much handicapped in the introduction of testimony by the Court ruling that it would be necessary in the first instance to prove that the alleged libel was true, viz., that there in reality was at that time a suit pending in which Horace Bell was suing Mesmer. It appeared that there was a suit brought by C. A. Bell against Mesmer to recover for the Insertion of an advertisement in the Porcupine, and that upon the trial of that case Mesmer procured an offset against Horace Bell for an indebtedness from him to Mesmer. Defending counsel sought to maintain that having obtained the offset, Horace Bell must necessarily be the real and interested party to the suit.

MESMER EXAMINED.

Upon Mesmer taking the stand, he stated that Horace Bell was the responsible party to the suit referred to, and the Court thereupon permitted him to proceed and state the circumstances in connection with what witness termed "a blackmailing suit." He stated that while he had loaned money to Horace Bell to start the Porcupine, he had never met or known Charles A. Bell until he was brough to his (witness's) store by his father, who said: "This is my son Charles; give him a set of furniture, and I'll stand good for it."

MESMER EXAMINED.

Witness: Sue him! sue what? I might as well sue the street.

District Attorney: We object, Your Honor, to these questions, they being immaterial.

Horace Bell: And you had better not say that, Messmer.

Witness: The account submitted to me and which I have now in my hand I recognized. I had loaned money to Horace Bell, giving him $20, $10 and other sums, which give from Hamilton Decker. I didn't insert those sums in my account, or it would have been no good.

District Attorney: We object to counsel seating up. I guess that Bell won't dealing the items to witness. Well, it is a long time ago, but I advanced him $20, $10 and other sums, which I was been no good.

District Attorney: We object to counsel seating up. I guess that Bell won't d onnsel for the defense was very much undicapped in the introduction of testi-ony by the Court ruling that it would be handing to him the complaint of C. A. Bell against Mesmer, asked him if it was not in his handwriting, including the signature of his son. In reply, witness denied that it was in his handwriting, or that he had any interest in the suit. Continuing, he stated: "The Porcupine always halowing, he stated: in the suit. Continuing, he stated: orcupine always belonged to my son . He bought it with his own money, "The Foreignia always occurs as when some always and he owns every type in the place, with the exception of the time when Mr. Kavane was his partner."

C. C. Stephens: Did you not vourself procure the money from Louis Mesmer and Gov. Downey that purchased the Porcupine cure the money from Louis Mesmer and Gov. Downey that purchased the Porcupine plant?

Witness: I have said that my son sold Gov. Downey a lot, and from the proceeds of that sale he purchased the plant, and has owned it ever since. At that time my son was 19 years of age. He was emancipated at 16, and has always from that time had his time and money, not being under my control, although living in my family.

C. C. Stephens: Did he ever get any money from Louis Mesmer?

Witness: Not a dollar. Louis Mesmer owes me mone; now, that is outlawed, for legal services.

C. C. Stephens: Did you ever go to Mesmer, after the paper was started, and borrow money to pay the hands?

Witness: The paper was started at the instance of two printers. Gov. Downey and Louis Mesmer agreed to help the paper—Col. Wells: I wish Your Honor would instruct the witness to answer the question. Witness: It I make one I will make a bet.

Witness; If I make one I will make a bet-

Witness; If I make one I will make a better one than you did the other night. Louis Mesmer promised to furnish me money, but he never did it. He never gave me any save that with which he was credited in the suit of C. A. Bell against him.

During the examination of Louis Mesmer, who was recalled, objection after objection was taken by opposing counsel. Finally Col. Wells stated that he proposed to show that Bell went to Mesmer, bought furniture for his son and became security for the bill. Horace Bell: And paid for it, too.

Witness (excitedly): You have never paid for it.

Horace Bell: And paid for it, too.
Witness (excitedly): You have never paid for it.

These little spats were not infrequent, and served to enliven what would otherwise have been an interminable wrangle over legal technicalities. During the argument of an objection Col. Wells stated that if the proof was admissible under the raiings of the Court the defense would show that the alleged libel was true and that the defendant published it for the purpose of showing Horace Bell up to the community in the light in which he should be shown.
Horace Bell: Like you have shown me.
Col. Wells: Yes, sir; stripped you to your

C. C. Stephens: Do you remember that C. A. and Horace Bell purchased certain goods of Mr. Mesmer?

District Attorney: We object to it, being immaterial and irrelevant.

Objection sustained.

A number of further questions were asked, tending to show the connection existing between Mesmer and Bell at that time, to which objection was taken and allowed by the Court.

Defending counsel, not being allowed to innterrogate the witness further, he gave place to

C. C. Stephens: We are prepared to show that for a year preceding this date Horace Bell was repeatedly and persistently maligning the defendent in this paper in which his name appears as editor.

The Court: The objection is overruled. C. C. Stephens: What end did you have in view in publishing the article complained of in the Progress?

District Attorney: We object on the ground that it is irrelevant, immaterial, and further, that no foundation has been laid. Objection sustained.

C. C. Stephens: I will ask you if you were actuated by any malice toward Horace Bell in publishing that article?

District Attorney: We object, it being immaterial and irrelevant, and asking the vitness to decide on a conclusion of law. Objection sustained.

Louis Mesmer was again called, counsel triving to get at the facts, which, by the ruling of the Court, seemed unattainable.

C. Stephens: Do you know of your own nowledge who was the real plaintiff in the nult against Louis Mesmer referred to here? Objection made and overruied.

The witness: Yes, I know; it was Horace Bell.

Trict Attorney: We object to the intion of any such testimony as immaand incompetent; the judgment roll best evidence and cannot be contradicted by oral testimony. The defense made the complaining witness their own a trees, and Bell on the witness stand denied having any interest in the suit against Louis Mesmer whatever.

The Court overruled the objection.

The witness: I called upon Horace Bell in his office, and in conversation he didn't say much about blackmailing, but he wanted to get more money out of me than he had got.

C. C. Stephens: Has the judgment in that case been paid by yoa?

Witness: No, I never paid it.

Horace Bell: Well, It has been paid, anyway.

anyway.
Witness: I never owed B. A. Stephens anything. Horace Bell in the first instance told me he would put advertisements in the Porcupine against the outstanding account. Whenever I asked Bell for any money he said he had none.

B. A. STEPHENS, recalled, testified: I had a conversation with Mr. Mesmer about March, 1887, and he then told me "that Horace Bell had a with Mr. Mesmer about March, 1887, and he then told me "that Horace Bell had a swindly, blackmail suit against me." He said he had loaned Bell money to start the Porcupine, and that Bell had put advertisements in his paper, and later had sent an account in. He gave me a variety of particulars which I believed, judging from Mr. Mesmer's standing in the community.

C. C. Stephens: What was your motive in publishing the alleged libel?

Witness: Weil, my motive was, in the first instance, one of self-defense. For about a year I had been attacked in the Porcupine and called a liar, and all kinds of things ascribed to me. In addition, I wished to expose the character of the man who was posing as a censor before the people. I did not publish it from any motives of aggravation or ill will.

Cross-examined: I did not publish it by way of retaliation. There was nothing to prevent me instituting suit against Mr. Bell, and indeed there is now a case pending against him on my complaint. At present I cannot remember any other motives which prompted me to publish the article.

At this point the defense rested, and the prosecution called

D. KAVANE in rebuttal, who testified: I am a farmer and live close to Alhambra. I was an owner some three or four years ago in the Porcupine, and sold out my interest to C. A. Bell. During my connection with the paper Horace Bell had no interest in the paper.
District Attorney: Examine that account, will you

Horace Bell had no interest in the paper.

City of the matter from your own knowledge, Mr. Kavane.

Without s: If you just let me alone, I'll take care of myself.

C. C. Stephens: No you won't, Mr. Kavane, for we'll help you; now just keep your seat, and nemember you're a witness. Witness: I got the advertisement from Mesmer myself, and put it in the paper.

Cross-examined: I bought an interest in the paper from Charlie Bell, and when I sold out there was no intermediary to negotiate. Horace Bell was the editor. I think I only collected one account for an advertisement from Mesmer. It was either $15 or $20, and I can't exactly remember the date. I know I didn't collect it all. When I contracted for the advertisement I had a talk first with Mesmer's son, Joe, who was present, and after I had written the advertisement up at the office I submitted it to Mr. Mesmer. The advertisement was in the paper from the time Mesmer's store opened. When I went back to collect the balance of the account Mesmer refused to pay. I then ordered the advertisement out. opened. When I went back to collect the balance of the account Mesmer refused to pay. I then ordered the advertisement out, and Horace Bell interfered, and said they were friends, and he would get the money out of him. If Mesmer ever put up any money to run the office I never heard of it. I think I once borrowed $10 from Horace Library and he thought that a number of exception of the control o think I once borrowed $10 from Hora Sell on Saturday night to pay the hands.

C. A. BELL then testified: The claim against Mr. Mesmer amounted to $150, and was more than I mer amounted to $150, and was more than I could afford to lose, so I sued him and got judgment. The judgment was paid. I satisfied the record, and used the money, my father never getting a cent of it.

Cross-examined: The acreement with my father was that he should get $15 per week as editor. I got the funds to buy into the Porcupine from my work as printer and newspaperman, and aiso money that I had had since I was 16. I called upon Mr. Mesmer with regard to his account, and when he spoke about advancing $20 to the Porcupine I at once gave him credit for the amount. At that time that was the amount of his claim. My name never figured as proprietor, because it was not necessary, and furthermore the name of Horace Bell as editor is an assurance that it will be run in a manner fearless and free.

C. D. PLATT,

c. D. PLATT,
the First-street jeweler, then stated: I had a conversation with B. A. Stephens in my store last December and at that time no mention was made of Louis Mesmer.
The prosecution not being allowed to extort from the witness the pith of the conversation which ensued between the witness and Stephens, the former was retired from the stand and Assistant District Attorney Harrison proceeded to open the argument to the jury.
The opening argument was short, and C.
C. Stephens then, at considerable length, brought into play his very considerable powers of invective while criticising the testimony. C. D. PLATT,

BELL KNOCKED OUT.

The arguments were not concluded until an advanced hour in the evening, and, after eing charged, the jury retired to consider their verdict. Contrary to expectation, they were absent from the courtroom but a very short time, at the end of 10 minutes returning with a verdict of "Not guilty" against the defendant.

Making Voters,

Quite a number of foreigners are making pplication in the various departments of the Superior Court to be admitted as citizens of the United States. In Department No. 3, Judge O'Melveny yesterday, upon No. 3, Judge O'Melveny yesterday, upon proper proofs being submitted and the oath of allegiance taken, admitted the following persons to all the rights and privileges of citizenship: John A. Edward Joyce, a native of Great Britain and Andrew Eckert, a native of Great Britain.

The plaintiff alleges that on the above date the defendant agreed to deliver certain property in Pomona for the sum of $12,500, and that on the 8th day of June, 1888, there became due from defendant to the plaintiff $3000, and for that sum he now prays judgment, with costs of the suit.

During the process his hat was lying on a table in the prison, and for some reason or another somebody saw fit to exchange it. The occupants of the prison were searched, with the result that a $20 gold thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask piece was found on the person of a trusty

POLICE COMMISSIONERS. REGULAR MEETING OF THE

as if the Commis Were About to Go for Official Scalps-Sick Officers Who Draw

Pay-Other Business.

The Board of Police Commissioners met yesterday afternoon in the Mayor's office, with His Honor in the chair and President Humphreys and Chief Cuddy promptly in their places. There was some falling off in the number of spectators, but the usual number of applicants for saloon licenses and positions on the police force were present in force.

After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, the matter of the application of Calvin & Coburn for a license for a came up, and a number of letters were read from persons withdrawing their objections to the saloon. Chief Cuddy said that he had noticed several names signed to the protest who did not live in the block, and protest who did not live in the block, and he did not think they should count in the matter of the license. The chief also said that this was a different case from an ordinary salcon, as it was attached to an opera-house, and there was not a similar place in the country which did not have such a place. After some further talk, the matter went over for another week.

NEW APPLICATIONS. The new applications were then taken up, the first being that of Maller & Both, corner Hoff and Water streets, East Los Angeles, Hou and water streets, last Los Angeles, which was granted.

The following were then acted upon: A. G. Martell & Co., 140½ Upper Main street (change), action postponed; D. Rose, 151 South Main street (change), action postponed; Robert Sladie, 332 South Spring (new saloon), action postponed one week; John Reiber, 12½ West Second street (change), action postponed one week; John Tetler, 17 San Pedro street (new saloon), (change), action postponed one week; John a Tetier, 17 San Pedro street (new saloon), action postponed one week.

In the matter of the Ott-Murphy case, Mrs. Ott sent word that she was sick, and asked a further continuance of one week, which was granted. It was learned that the lady had gone out to the Arroyo Seco, and while under the influence of liquor had fallen down and hurt herself.

A petition was received from residents west of Pearl and Seventh streets, stating that they were without police protection, and asking for a policeman. Chief Cuddy se aid that there was a mounted officer already over there, and a footman on Pearl street. After discussion, the board recommended, on motion of the Mayor, that the petition be granted, and that the Council be asked to allow men to patrol this section and also Angeleio Heights, as the present force is insufficient.

The reports of the captain and sergeants were received and filed. They report reverything quiet with nothing of importance to submit to the board.

SPECIAL OFFICERS.

A petition was received from W. A. Daws, asking to be appointed a special officer on New High street without pay. Daws appeored before the board and stated that a number of families and others had paid him in advance, and that for this reason he wanted to be appointed. Chief Cuddy objected and the petition was denied. Chief Cuddy stated that the special officer appointed for Boyle Heights, named Bacon, was a drunken vagabond, and on motion the Chief was instructed to investigate the case of Bacon, and if he was not found all right that he be removed.

A communication was received from Dr. Reese, stating that he had examined Officer Palmore and found him suffering from the effects of a kick indicted while attempting to make an arrest. Daws, asking to be appointed a special to make an arrest.

It was decided that hereafter all statements in regard to injuries should be made at the first meeting of the month and at no healing freight be would have them arrested, which would at least bring matters to a point.

The officer having returned and reported that the Clerk was unable to find the ordinance, the matter then went over for a week.

The matter of revising the police force came up, and Mr. Humphreys made an effort to have it considered, but the Chief asked for more time, and it went over with the understanding that during the week the board would meet and arrange the matter. The board was about to adjourn, when Friese & Miller appeared and put in a protest against Friese & Miller being rerused a license, and asked what objection the Chief had to them. The Chief said the only objection he had was that they kept a low, disreputable place, and that the theater was also a low dive that should be suppressed. The Chief said that he would not vote for a license under any circumstances. On motion of Mr. Humphreys, the Chief was instructed to furnish the board with a list of dives that should be suppressed.

The clerk stated all the owners of buildings where gambling was carried on had been notified of the orders of the board in regard to bars and signals.

Mr. Woodhead made a statement in regard to salons, saying that the people in his block interpreted the ordinance to cover saloons already in operation, as well as those that were to be established, and wanted the saloons already in his block to be suppressed. After a lengthy discussion, the board adjourned, after promising to look into the matter.

He Will Go Up for Robbing a Fellowprisoner.

In Department No. 1 of the Superior Court, yesterday, Joseph Burns, charged with grand larceny, was brought before Judge Gardiner to stand his trial for the offense as stated.

It will be remembered that on the 1st of May last, Alphonso Scapelo was returned to this city from San Francisco on a warrant issued from the Superior Court of this county. He had been arrested on a charge of having defrauded certain Italian countrymen of his by means of selling them bogus named Joe Burns, who rejoices in the nickname of "Barber Joe." After a more thorough search by Officer McCarthy, the remaining amount of the lost money was found hidden beneath the bathtub.

The various witnesses examined yesterday testified to the finding of the $30 upon the person of Burns, and the latter stated that he could not account for the presence of the money in his overalls, unless it had been placed there by some one before he came into possession of the garment.
Throughout the testimony on behalf of the prosecution was too strong to be overcome, although Hugh Crawford, Esq., who appeared for the defendant, made the best showing possible under the circumstances.
After a short retirement, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty as charged.

THE PESTHOUSE.

The Matter Is at Last Fixed to the Satisfaction of All. The matter of the location of the pest-house in the Elysian Park site is still the matter of considerable comment, and just what will be the outcome of the question is hard to say. The action of the Council in passing an ordinance doing away with the desired the council of the council or passing an ordinance doing away with the desired the council or the co hard to say. The action of the Council in passing an ordinance doing away with the dedication of the lands in question for park purposes raised quite a breeze of indignation, as it tooked like an attempt to do away with the one respectably-sized park for the future in the city, and many persons who did not know where the lands were situated became interested enough to look into the matter, and when they discovered that the site was the old stone quarry hills, which are almost inaccessible, and much of the plat so devoid of soil that an acre of it would not keep a hen, they began to think that, after all, it was perhaps more a matter of sentiment than anything else which had raised the commotion. Still, there were several parties who owned property adjoining the site, on the opposite side of the divide, who objected to having a hospital located in such close proximity to their land, and they filed a formal protest with His Honor the Mayor against any change. They argued that parties who had bought property around the present pesthouse did so with their eyes open, and that it was manifestly unjust to others who had purchased lands at a much higher rate elsewhere to have their property depreciated to their neighbors' advantage. Mayor Workman was thus placed

Mr. Daly, after due consideration, yesterday sent His Honor the following reply which, it will be observed, is rather sarcastic and reads very nicely, but can hardly be said to amount to much in helping the Mayor out of his dilemma—in fact it leaves the question exactly where it was before the decision was handed in:

CITY ATTORNEY'S OPINION.

OFFICE OF THE CITY ATTORNEY.
LOS ANGELES, CAL., June 26, 1888.

Hon. W. H. Workman, Mayor of Los Angeles: In reply to yours of the 23d inst., I must report that no facts have been presented to change my opinion as given on a former occasion on the question of the dedication of the Elysian Park land. (Volume 23, City Records, page 675.) You will, however, find in Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, book 1, pages 467 and 468, what might be considered a dedication of these same lands to the public as a stone quarry, reserving a right of way of wagon road over the lands lying in the center of the park. Whether this use was extinguished, or has ever been accepted by the public, is a question I assume was decided by the Mayor and Council by the passage of ordinance No. 218.

In reply to your second question, I must answer that the negligence of the city officials to perform the trust enjoined by the act of dedication does not affect it; the trust remains the same though not executed.

If the Council should determine the pesthouse an improvement on the present state of affairs, I see no objection to an exercise of this judgment. I venture it as an opinion (not legal) that if the improvements of the grounds progress as rapidly in the future as they have in the past, through the long vista of centuries, generation after generation will turn their admiring eyes from the cruubling ledges and stately sage brush to the genius, industry and estheticism that prompted the transposition of rugged and unprolific mounds of rock to an Elysium.

Respectfully, &J. C. DALY, City Attorney Loo Angeles.

Mayor Workman, when asked last night whether he would sign the ordinance or return it to the Council without that important addition, declined to say, remarking that he would take some further time before deciding on the question, which he considered a very important one.

A TRIPO FORE THE GROUND.

A TIMES reporter on CITY ATTORNEY'S OPINION.

Mr. Humphreys stated that there were now on file about 120 applications before the board, among whom were a number of excellent men, and he thought that a number of excellent men, and he thought that a number of of changes could be made that would be a benefit to the force. There were numerous complaints against members of the force.

Another discussion then arose, and the matter of express wagons and other vehicles for hire came up. There was a general expression of opinion that something should be done, but they did not know just what they wanted, and the Chief said that he would instruct his officers to look after teamsters, and if he caught any of them hauling freight he would have them are rested, which would at least bring matters to a point. The officer hand the ordinance, the matter then went over for a week.

The officer having returned and reported that the Clerk was unable to find the ordinance, the matter of revising the police force came up, and Mr. Humphreys made an as effort to have it considered, but the Chief and the ordinance, the matter of revising the police force came up, and Mr. Humphreys made an as effort to have it considered, but the Chief as and the thought objection he had was that they kept a low, disreputable place, and that the theater was also a low dive that should be suppressed. V. The duty and privilege of the members of his personal staff will be to at all times support the Commanding General in all his enterprises and in every respect; to do all in their power to still further exalt his high office and its distinguished incumbent. To this end they will take pains, on all appropriate occasions, to judiclously forward his interests, not only in military but also in political and social circles, taking pains to explain away and smooth over things. It is suggested to members of the personal staff that they be especially vigilant and industrious in this particular, for there is much work to do. See the sojers!" "See the Jigadier-Brindle!" "Look at the gold and brass onto him!" and like irreverent exclamations. Such conduct does not tend to increase the dignity of the military profession, nor to promote respect in the minds of the populace for the person of the Commanding General, which is the object to be attained. Members of the staff will therefore exert themselves to break up the pernicious practice, which is so mortifying to the Commanding General's feelings. The bright boys themselves are reminded that it is not beyond the pale of possibility for each of them, through good conduct and by emulating the illustrious example of the Commanding General in his private life, to become in time a brigadier-general himself. After the services at the residence the remains were followed to the Evergreen Cemetery, where the final ceremonies were conducted by the ladies of the Eastern Star. The floral tributes were very elaborate, there being several very handsome pieces, one in particular, being a beautiful star sent by the lodge.

Among the mourners was Judge de Puy, who appeared completely broken down, and was hardly able to remain during the services.

arrest of her husband. She said that her name was Mrs. Ethel Williams, and that she wanted her husband taken into as she was in fear of her life if he were allowed to remain at large. She was sent up to Justice Austin, who sent her to the District Attorney, where she swore out a complaint. She said that she resided at No. 32 Leroy street, where, on the night of the 24th inst., her husband had made an assault on her withra large knife, and was only prevented from killing her by the interference of persons in the house. The District Attorney at once issued a complaint, and Justice King issued a warrant for the arrest of Williams, which was put in the hands of a policeman for service.

Harrington and Foley, the two printers employed at the Tribune office, who were unfortunate enough to excite the ire of Deputy Constable Cline on the night of the ratification meeting by giving vent to their emotions by whooping and yelling and otherwise contributing their quota to the general pandemonium which prevailed just about that time, were yesterday brough up in court to answer the charges preferred in the Township Court two complaints had been lodged, one of battery and one for disturbing the peace. The two cases having been set for hearing by Justice Taney, the two defendants were released on their own recognizance to appear on the day specified for examination.

Ci The third charge, that of resisting an offi-cer while in discharge of his duty, came up before Justice King, and there the two unfortunates were held in $500 bonds each. Such heavy bail for the offense is unprece-dented, and is enough to make both defend-ants forswear politics for the rest of their natural lives.

Basements and Other Apartments.

When used in sidewalks and floors the entire top surface is of artificial stone and glass—no iron. They are glazed with piano-convex or refracting lense, which lights back. This is an improvement on the iron-knob light, which collects dirt and mud, and obscures light to the basement, which is going into disuse for fine buildings.

The new Flood Building, Union Club, Callfornia Bank and other fine buildings in San Francisce have this improvement,

SAN MATEO (N. M.), June 2.—[Staff Correspondence of THE TIMES.] When President Cleveland sent his late lamented mess-age to Congress, he furnished one of the most remarkable extant examples of the atrocious ignorance of too many Americans concerning their own great country. That portion of New York State which portion of New York State which breeds fat steers, fat nogs and fat Presidents is undoubtedly a very attractive corner of the Nation; but the adipose Buffalo intellect was seriously in error in assuming New York to be the United States, a blunder which the aforesaid a. B. I. has made on numerous antecedent occasions. When an anxious world learned from the message that "the sheep-owners of the United States have from 25 to 50 head of sheep apiece, and the removal of the tariff would make a difference of but $5 or $6 a year to the owners" (I quote from memory, not having the precious document at hand), a snort of derision and disgust arose from every wool-growing State and Territory in the Union. "Twenty-five to fifty head apiece," forsooth! Out here in the great Southwest, where the man who has only a thousand sheep is little short of a pauper, where many a man has 40,000, and where sheep are the very life of the country, that message "made our tired ache." Kansas, Colorado, Texas, New Mexico, Arizonia and California groaned in unison, and the unanimity of expression, more emphatic than complimentary, was startling. "Carrambas! Que pendejo Presidente," or its English equivalent went up from every New Mexico and the unanimity of expression, more emphatic than complimentary, was startling. "Carrambas! Que pendejo Presidente," or its English equivalent went up from every New Mexico they are the very life blood. Take away our sheep, or make it impossible to raise them with profit, and the Territory could no longer exist. Our mines of gold, silver, copper and coal are good, but the disadvantages of working them are so great that the net results are almost nil. Cattle impoverish the Territory, and at present are a source of little if any revenue to their owners. The average scarcity of water, and the natural slow-dess of developing gigantic irrigation schemes in a practically new country, make farming a matter of very limited area and more limited outcome. A yast amount of farming produce is perfore shipped in here fr breeds fat steers, fat nogs and fat Presidents is undoubtedly a very atyest amount of farming produce is perforce shipped in here from the States. And upon thousands of smooth mesas, upon thousands of pifion-clad mountains, across thousands of narrow valleys twinkle the millions of little sharp feet, whose woolly owners are today, as they have been for centuries, the dependence of New Mexico. The history of sheep in New Mexico is the history of the people. The one could not have existed without the other—a proposition as true today as it was 200 years ago. There are now in this Territory about 150,000 inhabitants—not counting the 80,000 Indians (Navthis Territory about 150,000 inhabitants —notreounting the 30,000 inhabitants agoes, Pueblos and Apaches). Of the whole population, over two-thirds are more or less dependent upon sheep for their livelihood; and full one-half are entirely and absolutely thus dependent. In this village of San Ma'eo, for instance, which has 400 inhabitants, there are but three men left at home in lambing-time, one of whom 1s the assistant of the town midwife, who cannot go without seriously jeopardizing the census returns. A few daysago Sol Luna went up from the Rlo Grande Valley to his mountain rancho, taking with him to help in the lambing 90 out of the 250 voters of Los Lunas. His mother and brothers will employ every one of the remainder at the same business. These are simply sample cases, and might be multiplied indefinitely, Four-fifths of the merchauts in the Territory depend largely upon the wool crop. The work is the cattle business nearly all the result points of the cattle business nearly all the cattle busines rope, wagons from Indiana, and most of the other modern adjuncts of civilization are very rapidly susrping in New Mexico the place of the old the Territory no good. The assertions of interested parties to the contrary notwithstanding, it is an established fact that sheep injure the range less than cattle do. Cattle stay more in one spot, and devour the grass to its very roots. Sheep are sternally on the move—one full realization of perpetual motion—browsing as much as they graze, and eating comparatively little grass.

The first sheep were brought to New Mexico in 1591 by Don Juan de Oñate's expedition from Zacatecas. They were pure Spanish merinos, of the finest flock in Spain, and then the finest in the world. Centuries of breeding-in, however, has caused the descendants of that fine old blood to degenerate, until they retain no single trace of their ancestry, either in shape, or in quantity or quality of wool. The same is true of everything in New Mexico. From the people down to the dogs the effects of breeding-in are painfully evident. Of late years, however, New Mexico of breeding-in are painfully evident. Of late years, however, New Mexico of breeding-in are painfully evident. Of late years, however, New Mexico of September of the improvement of their flocks, and have been importing from Vermont and other States the finest bucks obtainable. There are now in the Territory over 100,000 pure merino, $3.50 to $5.

The Pere Bros. of Bernalillo, a son-in-law of Don José Leandro Perea, is now the largest sheep-owners have been importing from Vermont and other States the finest bucks obtainable. There are now in the Territory over 100,000 pure merino $3.50 to $5.

The Perea Bros. of Bernalillo have from $0,000 to $0,000 head; Charles Lewis of improved ones. The average selling price here of a common (or bronco) sheep is $1.25; of an improved sheep, $2. and of a pure merino, $3.50 to $5.

Prior to the acquisition of New Mexico, $4.000 head; Charles Lewis of Albuquerque $4.000 head; Charles Lewis of Albuquerque complete control of the conducta, which often comprised as high as 1500 men, with thousands of horses and burros. The only goods carried for trade were the year's output of blankets; but beside the atajos of burros loaded with these, a huge pack-train was required to transport even the simple baggage of the expedition, as well as rations for the journey. In these early days there of the expedition, as well as rations for the journey. In those early days there were no mills in the Territory, and each man or group of friends had to carry a metate—the stone upon which the native New Mexican housewife scrubs her corn or wheat to meal or flour—and an abundance of raw grain for making tortillas.

Thus equipped, the conducta started early in March on its long and perilous trip. Arriving in Sonora, the expedition fell to trading, exchanging its gay blankets for cattle (all the cattle of New Mexico in early days came from Sonora), brazil-wood, chocolate, sugar, sugar-cane, satins and other dress goods, rebosis (small shawl for the head), oranges, dried fruits, coffee, leather, and Indian girls for servants. It was an immemorial custom ir. New leather, and Indian girls for servants. It was an immemorial custom ir. New Mexico that no young man could think of marrying until he could give his intended wife a capable Indian girl as cook and general servant. If he was unable to buy one in Mexico, he would organize a party of his companions in a similar fix, and start on a campaign against the Navajoes or Apaches, kill the warriors and bring the girls home prisoners, or perhaps lose his own life in attempting to carry out this interesting programme. Furthermore, when a young man gave it to be understood that he wished to marry a girl, her father would send the ardent suitor with the conducta into Sonora, and etherwise em-every fleece that was grown was manufactured at home. Those were industrious days, in every town and hamilet all the women were busy the whole year making blankets, assisted by such of the men as were at home. The best of the men as were at home. The brilliancy of color.

The women also mininfactared from the native woo every hard worn in the Territory, besides their own carpets, dresses, cloth for mattresses, etc. Such things as overcoats were the took in the middle, and the folds girt to his waist by a gay wool sash, also woven by his wife. The New England husking bee or barn-raising has list worked in common. Tonight, for instance, all the women in, town would meet at the house of Seffors Garcia and work upon her wool. Tomorrow night they would assemt a big iff no they pear's weaving, and so on from year's end to year's end. The men, too, when at home, and the state in the weaving. Then, as now, there were myrida of cattle, but no sheep, in the local case, and the state of the Sonors trade that the cheaper quality of New Mexican could weave 20 of them in a day, the wool her work of the Sonors trade that the cheaper quality of New Mexican could weave work of the Sonors trade that the cheaper quality of New Mexican could weave 20 of them in a day, the wool being prepared to his hand. But in sheepless Sonors, "everything went," which is, by interpretation, "I weary you and I don't weave you, because you are for a fool Sonoralian." And he was more than bailf right in saying, "and an anctive New Mexican could weave 20 of them in a day, the wool being prepared to his hand. But in sheepless Sonors, "everything went," with the surfords as unknown here as before the days of steam; with no wagons better than the shricking carriage and the shape of the shring as a steam hore would faint at the mers spot of the order of the shring as a steam of the shring astate of the shring as a steam of the shring as a steam of the shr

A sad story is that of the poor old couple.

Among the wool-growers of note must also be reckoned the Navajoe Indians, whose reservation is half in New Mexico and half in Arizona. This tribe, numbering 18,000 people, owns 1,000,000 sheep, from whose wool they weave their blankets—the warmest in the world, as their fine ones are the finest. The blankets—the warmest in the world, as their fine ones are the finest. The Navajoes make excellent shepherds, particularly the women, whose care of the flock is fairly motherly. I have seen a squaw put a wee, sick lamb in her bosom and carry it there all day. The women cannot be hired to attend to other flocks than their own; but hundreds of the bucks are employed as shepherds of New Mexican flocks. The chief trouble with them is that they give all their friends abundant mutton from the flock. Mexican shepherds, however, are sadly prone to do the however, are sadly prone to do the same, so it is about a stand-off.

The winter just clesing has been noted all over the continent as one of the severest in the memory of man. New Mexico her been like the standard that the severest in the memory of man. one of the severest in the memory of man. New Mex-ico has been less afflicted than the East, but has had a bad enough time. One day this winter the mercury stood at 30 below zero—an unheard-of figure for New Mexico. There has been an enormous amount of snow in the most elevated portions of the Territory, and miserable storms have been abominably numerous. In such parts of the Teritory stock of all kinds has suffered severely. East of the Rio Grande and south of the Zuñi mountains, all stock is in fine shape. But in the great uplands of the San Mateo mountains—the town of San Mateo is nearly 8000 feet above the sea—along the Continental Divide and in the Navajoe country the losses have been fearful. It is a conservative estimate that in that area 50,000 sheep have died since Navamber. The usual miserable storms have been abomi ready some of the principal sheep-owners—men who are morally and intellectually, as well as pecuniarily, the backbone of the Territory—are quietly making their preparations to emigrate to Sonora with their flocks in case wool is placed on the free list, and they would be followed, in such an event, by more than half the present population of the Territory. New Mexico is a country of noble possibilities—too grand a Territory to be depopulated thus. She should rather be helped on to her manifest destiny as a State and she will be one of whom her sisters may feel proud.

Norwithstanding that this is Presidential campaign year, and that there is a special embarrassment in the way at this time in the tariff question, way at this time in the tariff question, California is keeping up its remarkable activity in railroad building. The State is this year credited with 279 miles of track laid to June 1st, on 20 lines. This is the largest track-laying reported in any section of the United States, and is most encouraging as ahowing the permanent character of the remarkable progress which California is making.

Surpassing Excellence.

No fraudulent claims, unsupported by facts, have to be made on behalf of the Associated Press telegraphic news reports furnished by THE TIMES to its readers during the progress of the reent National Republican Cenvention. Those reports speak for themselves, and their superiority has been recognized by thousands of intelligent and discriminating people, too acute and alert to be deceived by the baseless assertions of unscrupulous adherents of that pirating opposition news organization, the so-called "California Associated Press."

During the eight days from June 19th to June 26th, inclusive, THE Times printed more than 100,000 words of telegraphic news matter (including day and night reports), chiefly relating to the Chicago convention. These reports covered the entire convention field, embracing an almost verbatim report of the great convention's proceedings, including all the principal speeches made before it, the platform and a multitude of other things. Bu it was not simply the colume of the reports that constituted their excellence-for mere quantity does not count for everything-it was the clear, concise, correct and graphic character of the daily accounts that gave them their exceptional value. To read them was to transfer the reader to the convention hall, save as to his corpus.

No approach, in either volume or value, was made by the narrow-gauge opposition news-gathering concern to these reports, published by us, of the long-established, widereaching, strong and genuine Associated Press. The snide and pretentious Los Angeles Tribune, which is supplied by the snide and pretentious opposition concern, undertakes to make a case for itself in this business, and in its frantic efforts to do so it "lies like a tombstone." In order to get the news and make a showing, it was compelled to resort to the brazen tactics, on every day of the convention's sitting, of deliberately cribbing-that is to say, stealing—the day report of the Associated Press, which, with monstrous audacity and infamous untruth, it published under the caption of "Copyright, 1888, by the California Associated Press!" By this means, and by frequently adding stuff twenty-four and forty-eight hours old, besides a be excluded, the law should be carried mass of bulletins furnished free by the Western Union Telegraph Company, present is demoralizing in the extreme. and never intended for the columns of a newspaper, the Tribune was enabled to swell out its "report" in a frog-like manner, and blow about "leading" in the news. Go to, wind instrument! You lead in nothing. It is THE TIMES that heads the procession.

What the Democrats Offer

Had the Democrats adopted a strong platform upon which to make the coming fight, the shortcomings of their ticket might be more readily overooked. On the contrary, they preferred to have a platform to match their ticket, and the consequence is a general debility and entire lack of attractiveness or merit, which cannot fail to exercise a marked influence on thinking voters and swell the Republican majority, for it may be taken as an un doubted fact that party lines are less strictly drawn than they have been. One of the chief characteristics of this era is the remarkable diffusion of education among the people. Not a mere smattering of book lore—a proficiency in the "three R's"-but a careful study of life problems and an investigation of the truths which underlie sound gov ernment. Such being the case, it is no onger so easy as it once was for fluent stump speakers to catch voters with glittering generalities. The political schoolmaster is abroad in the land, the product of the perfecting printing press is scattered broadcast, shedding light upon the problems of the day. Voters are acquiring the habit of thinking closely upon subjects which closely concern them, and if they find that their party is following a course which they know to be altogether wrong, they will express their eelings very plainly at the polls in spite of the cry of "traitors" that may be hurled at them.

All this is very favorable to the Republican cause. The Republicans cheerfully invite the closest comparison between the two tickets and the two platforms. What have the Demo-crats to offer? A party boss! The most ignorant man who ever reached the Presidential office, afflicted with an overweening conceit of himself.

prosperity of the country. This is what the Democracy invites free America to vote for! A vulgar imitaon of European autocracy, aiming at the establishment of a system which Europe is anxious to shake off. The Democrats will not be able, this year, to play the same game they did in 1884. That year they saw defeat staring them in the face, owing to the tariff plank in their platform. Randail was called upon to save the party by going into the protectionist States and explaining that the tariff plank did not mean what it said. That will not work this time, for the Democratic national platform of 1888 declares authoritatively that Randall's interpretation of the tariff plank of the platform of 1884 in his stump speeches in New York and New Jersey in that year was false. The issue has this time been so plainly made that it cannot be avoided. It is well that it is so. It is most important for the industries and business of the country that this question should be definitely settled. The uncertainty regarding the tariff, the fears of its radical alteration and the agitation every year for a radical therein, have done incalculable harm to laborers, to employers, and to business men of every branch. Fear that the tariff would be radically changed has prevented investment of capital in a great number of cases-is preventing such investment at the present time: re sources of incalculable value remain undeveloped because of this uncer tainty, and at this very time works are idle, for no other reason, which should employ several hundred thousand per-

A settlement of this vexed question should therefore be welcomed, not only by Republicans, but by all patriotic Democrats, to whom the welfare of the country is of more importance than the temporary success of their party. The Democratic party leaders would naturally prefer-will undoubtedly seek-to keep the question in the background. or to cast aroung it a glamour of meaningless verbosity which shall make it appear other than what it is. Such efforts will be futile. The intelligent voters of the country will this year cast their votes in accordance with their convictions and their interests. Of the result there can be little doubt. The Republican party has this year a ban-ner upon which it may safely inscribe the phrase: "In hoc signo vinces!"

Encouraging Small Vineyardists.

An enterprise is at present undergoing development in Napa county for the encouragement of small vineyardists, who have hitherto been at the mercy of the wine men, having been compelled to either sell their grapes on the vines for whatever price the wineries in the neighborhood may be willing to give, or to dispose of their newly-pressed wine at a rate arbitrarily fixed by the large wine dealers. In either case, the cream of the profit is taken by the wineries. It is now proposed to erect a storage cellar or warehouse, to keep the vintage of small vineyardists. Associated with the storage of wine is the loaning of money at a low rate of interest, the storage warehouse receipt being accepted as collateral security. This is an excellent movement, which should be taken up in this part of the State. The truit and vine-grower of moderate means is peculiarly at the mercy of the purchaser, owing to the perishable nature of his product, unless he can contrive to put it in shape to hold for a good market. This, however, the small grower can seldom do, hence the pressing need of such systems as that which is being tried in Napa county. Should it prove a success, one of the most important problems associated with winemaking on a small scale will have been solved, and storage warehouses, whose will be accepted as good collateral by banks associated with them, will be established in every wine district in the State, thus facili tating what is at present our most crying need in this section-an increase in the amount of our products.

SPIRITUALISTS.

An Old Broken-hearted Man Tells His Sad Story. Everybody in Los Angeles who pretends to be posted knows that there are a large number of Spiritualists, not only in this city, but throughout the United States They are a queer set, and do many things that would make the playful witches of olden times ashamed of themselves. They do not boldly claim to belong to the free-leve type of humanity means the fellows type of humanity means the fellows. do not boldly claim to belong to the free-love type of humanity, nor are they followers or the Mormon Church, but they go on the theory, to a very large extent, that it is well for a man and woman to separate or "swap" partners as soon as they come to the conclusion that they can live together in happiness no longer. Or, in piain language, as soon as a wife is convinced that her "hubby" has not treated her exactly right, she is at liberty to pick out some other man and go to him without the customary assistance of the law, in such cases made and provided, as the lawyers say. The man, if he be a good Spiritualist, has the same power, and if his lawful wife objects to such a change, as she will do in nine cases out of ten, he puts on a heavenly look and ejaculates: "My dear, the spirits appeared to me last night and told me thai I must leave you for Mrs.— and you know their commands must be obeyed at all hazards." And if the poor wife has been taken to the bosom of table-thumpers and ghost-makers, she chokes her heart back and allows her lord and master to go on his evil way, when she knows that her happiness in this world for all time to come has been destroyed by the man who promised to protect her as long as she should live. All Spiritualists do not hold to this demoralizing faith, but there are quite a number of fakirs who do, and these same fakirs, especially when they are males, do a great deal of damage in the way of breaking up families.

There is at present on the extent. leve type of humanity, nor are they follow a great deal of damage in the way of breaking up families.

AN OFFICER'S WIFE.

There is at present on the police force an old officer who has failen a prey to one of these spiritualistic fakirs. The story of his troubles is best told in his own language. In the person of a Times reporter, the other day, the old guardian of the people's peace found a wilting listener, and between weeping and sighing he unbosomed himself something after this fashion:

"I have lived in this city a long time, and up to a few mouths ago I think I was the happlest man in the city. My wife and I were married when we were quite young, and you can see from my rugged face and gray hairs that my wife is no spring chicken at this time, but I have loved her, oh, so hard, and now she is breaking my heart. But to begin at the beginning, we were married about 20 years ago, and when we settled in Los Angeles the world was very bright, and both of us were as happy as two people could be. I went to work at once, and, although we lived well, we have been able to save several thousand dollars and a couple of ittle houses. I have hardly been idle a day, and up to a few months ago my wife was a good housekeeper, and she did all in her power to make our little home as pleasant as possible, but a change came over her. She became acquainted with several Spiritualists, and from that time my wife has been a changed woman. I went home day after day and found her out, and when I questioned her about it she simply said she was studying to become a doctor. She told me that she had hit on a scheme by which she could make a great deal of money.

DID NOT LIKE IT.

"I did not like the scheme, and I told her

DID NOT LIKE IT. "I did not like the scheme, and I told her so; but for the first time in her life she re fused to listen to me, and the more I talked against the scheme the more determined she was to carry out her insane idea. I told her that we were getting old, and had saved up enough money to liver out the rest of our lives and leave some for our children, but she was firmly set, and I gave up all hope and allowed her to go on. Shortly after she told me that she was to be a great doctor, I learned that she was running around with Spiritualists. I had had some experience with these people in an official way, and I know that their influence over my wife would bring great fused to listen to me, and the more I talked had some experience with these people in an official way, and I know that their influence over my wife would bring great trouble to our household. I swallowed my grief as best I could, although I could see day by day that my wife was getting further and further from me. Finally she took up her abode with a family of Spiritualists in a neighboring town. The household is presided over by a man who calls himself some kind of a professor, and he has under his care five or six women, who, like my wife, have left their homes for the sake of playing the ghost of somethine else. She has been away from me several weeks, and the other day she sued me for divorce. But that is not all. During our happy days I deeded to her the most of my property, and now she is going to leave me in my old age without a dollar. Oh, it is hard; and when I remember how happy we used to be it is enough to cause me to take my life. My children are left without a mother and I am almost crazy. There ought to be a law for people who break up a family in that way, and if the legislators do not do something. I do not know what will. in that way, and if the legislators de not do something I do not know what will become of our country."

The New Plan of Selling California Fruit in Chicago. Chicago, June 27.—18y the Associated Press. | All the animation and rivalry and representative character of the national political convention were presented this morning in a line stretching from the railroad depot across the river from where State street and South Water, the two busiest thoroughfares in Chicago, cross one another. The honors and attention show-ered upon the Californians at the great na tional gathering in St. Louis and Chicago had equally their counterpart here. Cali-fornia, in fact, seemed the subject on which for the time being everybody present was interested. Huge piles of luscious looking fruit in boxes, bewildering in variety and extent, littered the floor of the depot in every direction. Still more truit was pour ing in from heavily laden cars drawn an or tracks beside the depot's many open doors, while on the other side of the depot, through other open doors, were seen swearing, yelling teamsters with trucks and wagons general onslaught evidently soon to com-incace among the stack of boxes on the floor in little groups.

The money for the product was ready on iemand in San Francisco banks for growers of the Pacific Slope, wherever they might be located, to draw upon in an instant. Strangely enough there was, so far as could be ascertained, no letting down in the average prices realized, but the old sys-tem, open to hot competition from at least 5 different firms, was the explanation. tem, open to not competition from at least 25 different firms, was the explanation. Every man knew what his neighbor was deing and all took hold boldly, knowing as they did that no favorite was to overreach them by doing better secretly in the dark. Well-dressed business men were moving, predit and notebook in hand, carefully expending and making calculations regarding the boxes that stalwart porters about them were pulling open everywhere. Right in the ridst of the rows upon rows of boxes, and exactly like a miniature convention, a number of chairs were ranged just in front of what looked surprisingly similar to the peakers' stand occupied by Stephen M. White of California when presiding over the Democratic hosts at St. Louis or that of the other distinguished man of California, Estee, in the gathering of the Republican at the Auditorium. There was one notable difference. No gady decorations were visible anywhere, and the scene, though lively in the extreme, had an aspect that bespoke business and nothing else. No horn-blowing or hurrshing or speechmaking was necessary to stir things up, and when a brisk young man mounted the stand and rapped for order, the proceedings began instanter with a regular hop, skip and jump.

when a brisk young man mounted the stand and rapped for order, the proceedings and paped for order, the proceedings and paped for order, the proceedings and prompt and a trained nurse. Every argonal instanter with a regular hop, skip and jump.

It was virtually the inauguration of the auction system in handling fruit in this market for those for whom sales had been going on. For nearly a week the experiment was too unfamiliar to the buyer in attendance to be said, until this morning, to be really under way. Heretofore one firm has had practically the monopoly so far as Chicago and the vast territory tributary is concerned, of the entire product of the great California orchards. Purchases were by private sale, and the result was that the traffic here was stunted almost from its birth. Generally money could be realized and profits or losses counted by growers in California only after weeks of delay, when the final consignee in some outlying town from Chicago had been at last rounded up single-handed by the sole agent of the Californians in this city.

Hundreds of boxes were knocked down this morning in a minute, and the cash was by the terms of the sale, available on the spet. Everything in the depot had been depot and of within half an hour. Three deeps and profits were not confined to Chicago or the West. Quantities were taken by agents for Canada, and even Boston, New York and Philadelphia, whenever Chicago failed to how they regarded the new system, and what its influence would be. S. When Mr. Mills called up the Tariff Bill, Kelley of Pennsylvania suggested, on his individual responsibility, as a means of expediting adjournment, that the Tariff Bill be laid aside until next session, its fate then to depend upon the result of the November election, and that the surplus be kept down by an entire repeal of the tobacco tax.

Mr. Mills rejected the suggestion and made a counter proposal, that the Republicans should fix an early day for taking a final vote on the bill.

Mr. Reed of Maine declared that Mr. Kelley spoke for himself alone, and that the Republicans would insist upon pointing out the defects of the bill in detail.

Mr. Brekinridge of Kentucky declared that the Democrats intended to have a vote on the Mills Bill unless the 4th of March was reached by the obstructionists. He challenged the Republicans to put their platform in the shape of a legislative proposition, and then take a test vote between that and the pending bill, letting it go to the Senate if it passed the House.

Mr. Reed replied that the minority could not pass a bill. It would be absurd to try it.

Sweeping Reduction of Rates. NEW YORK, June 27.—A further and very sweeping reduction has been made by the "Soo" line, lowering rates on first-class freight to St. Paul and Minneapolis to 60 cents per 100 pounds, 52 cents on second-class, 43 cents on third, 32 cents on fourth, This being a strictly all-rail route, the rates are far lower than the bottom rates yet given by any other line, and as low as the rail and lake route to those points. The route is over four different roads, New York, Ontario and Western; Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg; Canadian Pacific; Minneapolis, Sault Ste. Marie and Atlantic. This makes not only the lowest possible rates to those points, but also reduces the rates to Pacific Coast points via St. Paul, the local rate from there to Portland, Or., and San Francisco being only $2.80, thus making a first-class rate of $3.40, or via the Can adian Pacific $3.25, as against the regular Transcontinental Association rate of $4.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] An application for a writ of error in the case of Alexander Goldenson, ander sentence of death for the murder of Mamie Kelley, was filed in the Supreme Court today. The grounds upon which the writ is asked are that defendant, by being denied a change of venue, was deprived of his constitutional rights as an American citizen.

The attorneys for Dr. Bowers, the convicted wife-poisoner, each filed a petition with the Supreme Court this afternoon, asking for a rehearing of the case. Great stress is laid on the late decision of the Appellate Court, stating that had the testimony introduced in the Benhayon inquest been on record in the lower court, it would have entitled defendant to a new trial.

How Real-estate Values Have In-creased During the Year. San Francisco, June 27.—[Special.] On Friday or Saturday Assessor Nealon will complete the real-estate assessment roll of this city and turn it over to the Board of Supervisors for equalization. Mr. Nealon stated today that the rapid increase in value of lands in the outer regions of the city, caused by the boom of last year, has resulted in increasing the roll about $16,-000,000. Lands on Market street, west of Ninth, have been very nearly doubled. Some portions of Western and Horner's additions have been raised 200 and 300 per cent., and all outside lands have participated in the general inflation, Much of Blocks have been improved, and in order to get sewerage and other street im-provements they must be raised to go over the 50 per cent. limit, or the assessed valuations fixed by the Vrooman Act. Real-estate men ask to have their property assessed high with a view to selling when the work is done. Last year the real-estate roll amounted to $191,594,054 An increase of $16,000,000 this year would bring it to $207,594,050, the high water mark or real-estate valuation in this city.

The personal-property roll is already in, and equalized amounts to $6,218,801. This taxable wealth, this year, up to $269,774,855.

CHICAGO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] Part of the California delegation to the Republican convention returned from time took up their old quarters at the Leland. Delegate Byington of Santa Rosa was found in a group of listeners relating the experiences of the trip. "It was the randest demonstration I have ever seen in town even of twice the size," he said. "The whole place seemed to have gone wild. There didn't seem to be a Democrat in Indianapolis. We of California are perfectly satisfied with our Presiden-tial nominees. He and his good lady threw open their house, and more than 6000 people passed through the doors, all eager to congratulate the nominee. The all eager to congratulate the nominee. The California delegation received a perfect ovation. We were received at the depot by a procession and tallylo coaches and escorted to the house, headed by our California bahner. It was frantically cheered all the way to Mr. Harrison's house. We were very well pleased with our trip, and canot be defeated in the home of such friends as the Indiana's are to him."

VERMONT REPUBLICANS.

A Ticket lominated—The Chicago Plaform Indorsed. MONTPELLE (Vt.), June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] The Republipublican State Convention was called to order this morning by John Batchelder of Arlington, whimade a brief speech.

He said the issues of the campaign are plainly defined protection of American industries being he chief one. [Applause.] His allusion to the stand of the Vermont nominated by accamation for Lieutenant Governor. W. H. Dubols was nominated for State Treasurer. Charles W. Porter was nominated for Secretary of State and Hon. E. W. Powell for Anditor.

The platform heartily inderses that of the Chicago Convention as a clear and forcible presentation of the principles of the party, and with Harrison and Morton inscribed on the banner as the personification of high character and clean politics, and a sure guarantee that pledges will be kept, premises a majority in September that shall carry hope and inspiration to the Republicans. It extends hearty thanks to the Chicago delegation from Vermont, deprecates the issuance of railroad passes to State officers and members of the Legislature as demoralizing, and demands that such practices be prohibited by law; favors the embodiment in the State laws of the long-and-short-haul provisions of the Interstate Commerce Law, and calls upon voters to roll up a majority of 30,000 for the State ticket. The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

The candidates for Governor and Lieutenatt-Governor addressed the convention.

A telegram was received from the Vermont delegation to the Chicago Convention, from Indianapolis, congratulating the party on the nomination of Harrison and Morton, also one of similar import from Congressman Grout.

CALIFORNIA'S CHOICE.

CALIFORNIA'S CHOICE.

Why the Coasters at Chicago Went

Over to Harrison.
CHICAGO, June 27.—[By the Associated Press.] M. H. de Young of San Francisco, who returned today with the other members of the California delegation from Indian-apolis, said, in an interview, that he talked with Gen. Harrison regarding the Pacific Coast. Regarding that talk Mr. de Young acted squarely with the Pacific Coast in the past, and if he was elected the coast would have no cause to regret it, and it would be remembered by him. I was asked the question by a prominent man, Why did you throw California's vote for Harri-son, after you had said that he could not carry the Pacific Slope?' I answered that question as I said he did, but that subse question as I said he did, but that subsequently I learned the reason why he voted against the amendments to the Page bill forbidding naturalization of Chinese. It was because the proposed measure was already a law and incorporated in the Revised Statutes. There was no necessity for enacting it again, and he showed his familiarity with legislation by the knowledge he displayed of the existing law. He did not object to the practice or principle of the existing or proposed legislation against the Chinese, but only against this useless reenactment and upon or principle of the existing or proposed legislation against the Chinese, but only against this useless reenactment and upon that statement of the case to me, I changed my views. Gen. Harrison is a protectionist in the fullest sense and, in his opinions, favoring a gold and sliver double standard money, he is with us. He has a strong will and is possessed of most honest intentious. Our ticket was Blaine and Harrison. We came shouting that ticket. When at the last moment we felt sure about the record, we concluded that if we could not get Blaine for first place we would take Harrison. His representative had said that he would not take second place, but we had intended to put him there with Blaine. We had cheered Harrison for second place, so we are satisfied. The final decision was made on the floor of the convention. We saw that it must be either Sherman or Harrison, and we had the power to break the dead lock. As long as the Blaine specter was in the convention it was certain that other delegates would vote for their men."

CHICAGO, June 27.—|By the Associated Press.] William Pitt Kellogg of Louisiana was in a talkative mood at the Grand Pacific tonight. Chatting over the political situation with some gentlemen he said:
"It all could have been done on Saturday evening. Blaine could have been nominated as easily as rolling off a log, and if it had not been for the mistake made by the New York delegation it would have been done, too."

"You could not have got Ohio for Blaine?" interjected one of the bystanders.

How Missouri Girls Carried a Town for Temperance. KANSAS CITY, June 27.—[By the Asso-ciated Press.] After the most exciting local option fight ever known in Missouri, the Prohibition party of Indepe county seat of this county and the oldest town in Missouri, won the victory today, carrying the election by over 200 majority, and ending the sale of liquor for four years. Women were everywhere, at the lunch-stands, at the polls and on the street corners, wearing silk badges and with dry ballots in their hands. Girls stood at the polis, and at every voting place was a banner on which was inscribed: "Tem-perance Beaux or No Beaux at All." Free perance Beaux or No Beaux at All." Free dinners were served at the polling-places. Hundreds of children carried banners through the streets and about the voting precincts. Some of these were inscribed: "Sow whisky ballots and reap drunken boys." "Young men, keep your records clean.—[J. B. Gough," "Rum, revenue and rags." "Rum ruins the reasoning," "Vote as you pray." "For God, home and native land." The legend, "We can't vote, but we can suffer," was carried by the women in the parade yesterday and today occupied a prominent place at each ward precinct. "We have shaken the hay-seed from our heads and mean to vote her dry," was on the standard at the head-quarters of the country voters in the courtyard, and it caused much amusement. Many of the best people of the town were interested in the contest. The Mormon Church, which has 100 voters, voted almost unanimously in favor of prohibition. The temperance people had a large celebration tonight.

BERLIN, June 27.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The opening of the Landtag today was accompanied by an imposing ceremonial, similar to that observed when the Reichstag met. The white hall of the old castle was again the scene of the cere-mony. The King entered the hall followed by the royal princes. The Queen and prin cesses occupied a dias to the right of the throne. The members of the two houses of the Landtag were stationed by the throne, the members of the upper house on the right and those of the lower ouse on the left of the throne. As soon as the King arrived the President of the upper house proposed cheers for him, and they were given with enthusiasm.

In his speech opening the session King William said that his government, like that of the late King Frederick, would be exercised as a legacy from his grandfather. He would equally guard the rights of his people and the Crown, and protect all relations existing between the State and the Catholic Church. He was satisfied with Prussian finances, and hoped that further relief of communes and persons of small means from taxation would be possible. The King concluded his speech with a quotation from Frederick the Great: "The King is the first servant of the State."

The King did not remove his helmet while reading his speech. The chief passages of the address were loudly applauded. When he had finished the King extended his hand to Prince Bismarck, who, bowing low, kissed it. After bowing to the assembly the King left the hall amid enthusiastic cheering.

address of condolence on the death of Emperor Frederick. The Empress in her reply to the address thanked them for their sympathy.

The President and Vice-President afterward waited on the Emperor and presented him with the reply of the Reichstag to the speech from the throne. The Emperor thanked them for the unanimity with which the reply had been voted and asked them to convey his thanks to the Reichstag. His Majesty recalled the passage of the Army Bill by the Reichstag on February 5th, and said that the decision had a most cheering effect upon his grandfather and himself.

The address of the upper and lower houses of the Landtag, in reply to the speech from the Throne, after expressions of grief at the death of Emperor Frederick, consists for the most part of a paraphrase of Emperor William's speech. Gratitude is expressed for the promises of the Emperor, and assurances are given of a faithful support of the Crown.

It is reported that the Berlin municipal authorities, some of whom hold liberal views on religious matters, were received in a frigid manner by the Emperor, and that he concluded his remarks by saying: "Make it your business to see that more churches are built in Berlin."

The opening of the Diet was little interior in pomp and dignity to the epening of the Relebstag. The heat was so intense that Count Bocholtz fainted.

The National Zettung says that the Emperor's speech will fill the country with confidence at the very outset of his reign.

The Post says that the Prussian people will hear the royal words with grateful hearts, and vow to the Emperor unspeakable fidelity and devotion.

It is stated that the Czar has sent a lengthy letter to Emperor William expressing through friendship for Germany, and sorrow for the loss sustained in the death of Emperor Frederick. It is said that a German general will carry to the Czar Emperor William's reply, in which the Emperor promises to follow his grandfather's advice respecting friendship for Russia.

A Fast Ride.

[San Bernardino Courier.]

Yesterday morning an accident occurred on the mountain road which was curred on the mountain road which was certainly a narrow escape from turning out frightfully. A six-horse team belonging to William Guy, and attached to a lumber wagon containing about 3400 feet of lumber, was coming down the mountain. Along the road are some very steep grades, and while coming down one of the steepest of these the heavy brake used on the wagon gave way and the heavy load forced the wagon on to the horses, starting them into a run. The driver stuck to his seat on top of the high load and dashed down the mountain side, looking at the time as if he was riding to his death. One of the lead horses run right over it, stripping the harness stumbled and fell and the other horses ran right over it, stripping the harness from him. The wagon fortunately ran in the horse and stopped on the narrow road, with slight damage to the load. Help was soon had and the poor horse clated Press. CHINE E GAMBLERS

They Appear in the City Court and Will Go to Jail.

At least two Chinese gamblers will have an opportunity to get acquainted with the inside of the jail. A day or two ago De-tectives Flickner and McGrath arrested a couple of lookouts for tan games and locked them up for vagrancy. The men had been hanging about Chinatown ever since the games were closed without any visible means of support, and as they were getting to be a nuisance, the officers took them in Yesterday morning when they were brought before Justice Austin they said that they before Justice Austin they said that they desired to enter a plea of guilty. This was allowed and 4 o'clock was set for the hour when they were to appear for sentence. At that time they were brought into the court, but in the meantime had been in consultation with their friends, and when asked if they had anything to say, their attorney asked for a new trial, on the grounds that the heathens did not understand the case. His Honor could not see it in that light, and refused to grant the motion. The attorney then said that he desired to take an appeal, and asked that bail be fixed, but the Justice replied that in a case of this sort bail was not a matter of right, but was in the discretion of the Court. He then sentenced each of the men to 30 days' imprisonment in the County Jail.

Jailer Russell yesterday learned that Anschlag, the Garden Grove murderer, had got possession of some morphine and searched him thoroughly, but he had disposed of the drug in some way. A lot of string was found in his pocket, which he had been accumulating, apparently, with a view to saving the hangman a job. It was taken away from him, and, hereafter, a very close watch will be kept upon him, as it is feared that he may yet attempt to take his own life.

D. H. Durbin, of 710 E. Second street, yesterday reported at the police station that his horse and buggy had been stolen. He said that he hitched his animal on New High street, in the rear of the St. Elmo hotel, for a few minutes, while he was attending to some business, and when he returned the outfit was gone. He thinks it was driven off by a drunken man who was standing near by. The horse is a small roan mare, with an open buggy, the woodwork of which is oil-minished and has the maker's mark on it. His monogram is on the harness.

Tuesday afternoon an inmate of Sidney Carton's house of ill-fame on Sepulveda street, named Minnie, attempted to commit suicide by shutting up the windows and trning en the gas. Her courage failed her, however, before she became unconscious, and she called for help, when Officer Camocy forced in the door and sent for a doctor, who soon put the young woman out of all danger. This is her second attempt. The Carton woman, who keeps the place, has been on a protracted debauch, and narrowly escaped being burned to death a few days ago. She received several severe burns, but is not dangerously hurt.

CATARRH, THROAT DISEASES ONCHITIS, ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION,

Together with diseases of THE EYE, THE EAR AND THE HEART Successfully treated by

M. Hilton Williams, M.D., M.C.P.S.O. HOLLENBECK BLOCK.

Corner Second and Spring streets, Los Ar geles, California, CONSUMPTION.

From consumers, "to waste away," usually applied to the advanced stage of lung disease. The following are promisent symptoms in the first stage, and whenever any of them exist a thorough examination should be made, with a view to arresting the disease as shown to exist: There is usually a sense of weariness upon a little exercise, a disposition to remain passive and idle, despondence, often from no apparent cause, a peculiar sensitiveness to the effect of cold, and a breathlessness upon moving quickly, or descending a hill or stairs, a slight, backing couch, with or without expectoration, excitability upon slight occasions, flying pains through the chest or during the night, slight fever in the afternoon, cold feet or hands, or in many cases, blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger-nails.

noon, cold feet or hands, or in many cases, blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger-nails.

Constitutional or tubercular consumption is a common form of lung disease. The progress is slow, but if left to itself is no less sure. It usually begins with a dry cough. At first these tubercies are exceedingly minute, the patient not at all suspecting, their presence. Gradually they develop into more active disease, and then follows the train of symptoms which leaves no doubt as to its true character. Sometimes spitting of blood or slight streaks in the mucus is the first indication of tuber-cular devosits, or it may be a chilly sensation in the back, followed by more or less heat in the paims of the hands, or an afternoon flush on the cheeks. The slow and gradual inroads of this form of consumption leave the stomach and appetite undisturbed for a considerable time. Finally, however, hectic fever and night sweats supervene, preceded by diarrhora. Then the loss of strength and fissh becomes rapid, the chest confracts, the features sharpen, the eye attains an unusual brilliancy, and the patient begins to realize that he is in the last stage of confirmed constitutional consumption.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured
